

But as summer came again, I often saw the ponies looking towards the distant mountains. They loved the show, but they wanted to go home.

