

Social Media Policy

Better Reading is Australia's #1 book community, with a strong social media presence.

Better Reading's highly engaged community values the safe, respectful and book-loving space we've created on social media, and in particular Facebook. To maintain this, the following measures have been put in place to ensure our readers' continued freedom to engage in respectful, book-loving discussion on our social media pages.

Better Reading will monitor social media comments during working hours and act on removing or hiding the following:

- Defamatory and offensive comments
- Comments that incite violence or harm
- We do not tolerate racist or prejudiced comments on our platforms

Better Reading also reserves the right to block or ban a user if they engage in a manner that is deemed antisocial.

While we have this policy in place, our moderators have very rarely had to act on it due to the nature of our platform. We thank you for the respectful engagement, we value it immensely.

Please don't hesitate to contact us with any questions you have about this.
